

H-BRS International Chair

Call for proposals: promotion programme for recruiting international faculty

International lecturers and researchers offer global perspectives within our research and teaching programmes and contribute to a multinational university. Thus, students have the opportunity to participate in an international and intercultural learning experience at H-BRS. In addition, the university community benefits from the international exposure directly at home.

The H-BRS International Chair supports all departments in pursuing their strategic activities to internationalize the university.

H-BRS International Chair can be filled for up to one year (extension possible) and offers to:

- give students and our university community the opportunity to interact with international lecturers and gain intercultural competencies and foreign language skills
- increase the diversity of our faculty and to enrich global learning through exposure to different content and methodologies used in other cultural contexts,
- increase the number of international faculty at our university,
- link our university with other institutions abroad,
- raise awareness of university stakeholders in interacting with international faculty,
- build a campus that makes internationalisation tangible.

We welcome nominees for the H-BRS International Chair that are not only actively engaged in teaching, but are also inspired to conduct research and strive to transfer these activities as well as being an advocate for internationalisation.

Only department heads (deans) of H-BRS are eligible to submit an expression of interest and application.

International Aspirant Researchers (with at least a Master degree) can be supported with the "H-BRS International Chair Aspirant Research and Teaching Fellowship" as well. It is also possible to be supported as guest lecturer or representation professorship.

The extent of funding can contains the following:

- salary,
- a student or scientific assistant to support the international teacher,
- tutorials to support teaching in English,
- a little discount for the teaching load for one semester,
- a German language course for the international teacher.

Persons interested in being nominated are kindly requested to contact the department of H-BRS that fits to their professional background.
